STREET RAILWAY WAR

The Portsmouth and Port Norfolk Lines in Court.

Judge Waddill Enjoins the Former From Crossing the Track of the Latter—Final Hearing Set For June 6.

In the United States Court, Judge Waddill granted a temporary injunction restraining the Portsmouth Street Railway Company from crossing the Port Norfolk Electric Railway Company's track at the intersection of Seventh and Broad streets, Portsmouth. The bill for injunction was filed by B. W. Leigh, receiver for the latter road. The allegation is made in the bill that since the night of April 28th the Port Norfolk line has been put to expense and worry because of the Portsmouth Street Railway Company trying to build a jump-rail crossing over the track of the former line at Seventh and Broad streets, so as to enable the latter company to run a line to Port Norfolk. Receiver Leigh, in the bill, alleges that the competition of the Portsmouth Street Railway line would be very disastrous to the Port Norfolk line should the former be allowed to enter that territory.

GUARDS ON THE SCENE.
The bill sets forth that on the night of April 28th Louis H. Moutrey, superintendent of the Portsmouth Street Railway, went with a force of hands, rails, spikes, etc., to Seventh and Broad streets and started to build the crossing which would give that road an entry into the territory of the Port Norfolk road. The employees of the latter road, the bill says, prevented the crossing being made. Since that time guards have been kept at the crossing to prevent further efforts of Mr. Moutrey to cross the petitioner's track, and at night it has been deemed necessary to keep a locked car on the said crossing.

INJUNCTION GRANTED.
Judge Waddill made an order granting the injunction to the receiver, and citing Louis H. Moutrey and the Portsmouth Street Railway Company to come before him on Tuesday, June 6th, and show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. The Judge's order enjoins the Portsmouth Street railway from interfering in any manner with the Port Norfolk company, and especially at the crossing named.

WHAT MR. MOUTREY SAYS.
Mr. Moutrey said to a Virginian-Pilot reporter yesterday that he did not know what answer his road would make to the injunction. He denies that he attempted to cross the track of the Port Norfolk road by night, as alleged. The Portsmouth Street Railway Company has been trying for some time to get to Port Norfolk and they have gone to the courts with the matter. The practicable way for that road to get there, Mr. Moutrey says, is to cross the Port Norfolk company's track at Seventh and Broad streets. That is the way they want to go. The Portsmouth Street railway now has a line running to this point.

THE DIRECT ISSUE.
The injunction proceedings has brought the matter to a direct issue. The Portsmouth Street Railway Company must make a sufficient answer or else the injunction will be made permanent, and in this event that company will be barred out of the Port Norfolk territory unless they can get there in some other way.

Mr. Joe Howard, who is perhaps the best known special newspaper writer of recent years, was in Norfolk yesterday with his wife and daughter. Mr. Howard and family came down from New York on the Old Dominion's new steamer Hamilton, and they spent the day here and at Old Point. "Howard's Column" in the New York Book Notice.

"Unto Two Flags True," by Emmy Hendren Gwathmey, in paper, the Nubian Book and News Company publishers, is a charming thirty-three page sketch group, in warm coloring, of a child's experience during the civil war. The nine chapters are simply flash-light pictures of the gay, the grave, the light, the shade, the comic and tragic episodes likely to impress themselves on a child's memory, and dress in such language and style as make them highly acceptable to children of smaller or greater growth. Suffolk and Richmond are the theatres of action and many now alive will recognize the characters and some, at least, of the incidents.

The Heritage of Dewey's Descendants
The document which the President of the United States recently framed, making Commodore Dewey an Admiral, will be highly prized by his descendants. It will be passed down from generation to generation. It will become as famous and as valuable as the great stomach remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which guarantees health to all users, which may be passed on from generation to generation. It is a document, but a great deal more. As a flesh-builder the Bitters has no equal. As a nerve tonic it is unsurpassed, and as a blood purifier and appetizer it is simply wonderful. If you feel tired in the morning, if you lack ambition, try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Be you man or woman, your ailments—constipation, indigestion, inactive liver or kidneys, the Bitters will cure you. All druggists sell it.

Change in the Board.

Mr. B. R. Jordan, of Norfolk, has been added to the Norfolk Civil Service Examining Board. The board now consists of Messrs. Jordan, H. W. T. Wilkins, J. B. Peabworth and Frank R. Henry.

Examinations of candidates for positions under civil service rules will probably be held several times a year instead of semi-annually, as heretofore.

To Preach at Kempville.

There will be preaching at Emanuel P. E. Church, Kempville, Princess Anne county, by Rev. Dr. C. E. Grammer, of Christ Church, at 8 o'clock to-night. Miss Mamie Ferrall, a member of Christ Church choir, has kindly consented to sing at this service. It is hoped that there will be a large congregation to hear Dr. Grammer and enjoy the sweet music.

Strawberry and Cream Social.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Norfolk will give a strawberry and ice-cream social at No. 258 Granby street, from 8 to 11 o'clock, to-night. The occasion will be enlivened by choice vocal and instrumental music, and reading in elocution by some of Norfolk's best musical and literary talent.

Handsome Row Boat.

Mr. R. M. Ennes, of the Chemical engine-house, has just completed a handsome 16-foot row-boat for Captain Kegehn, of Chemical Engine No. 1. It is named the "Geowhiz."

The handsome row-boat, "Bessie," made by him for Chief M. J. Ryan, was taken to Mahone's lake.

Mr. Ennes yesterday began work on another boat that he will keep for his own use at Ocean View.
Will Go to St. Louis.
The office of Supreme Secretary of the Catholic Knights of America will, after the first of July next, be permanently located at St. Louis, Mo., and Mr. Joseph C. Carroll, of this city, who was re-elected to this office at the late session of the Supreme Council in Kansas City, will arrive home to-morrow and proceed at once to remove his office effects to the new quarters. His son, Mr. Joseph Carroll, who was with his father, arrived here yesterday.

Time has proved the worth of the garments produced by Rudolph & Wallace.

Confederate Veterans Meet.
The general committee of arrangements of Pickett-Buchanan Camp, Confederate Veterans met in their hall last night and received reports from the various sub-committees on Memorial Day, to be observed Thursday next, the 25th instant. The committee decided that the exercises should be held on Monument square, as near the monument as may be deemed proper. The chairman of committee on music was authorized to procure music for the occasion.

Other business was transacted and the meeting adjourned.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF QUEEN STREET M. E. CHURCH.

The lecture room of Queen Street M. E. Church was filled to overflowing last night by the members and friends of the congregation, the occasion being a social given by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the church. The following was the program:

Hymn.....Congregation
Prayer.....Rev. S. C. Hatcher
Address by the President.....Mrs. Hatcher
Vocal solo.....Mr. John Drew
Address.....By the pastor
Recitation.....Mr. George Pentress
Vocal solo.....Miss Blackwell Holland
Vocal solo.....Miss Kate Sivils
The address of the president, Mrs. Hatcher, was very timely. It was a strong appeal to the women to do her part of the great work of sending the gospel to the heathen nations; in helping the missionaries now in foreign lands, and in sending others out to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation to those who have no knowledge of the true God.
She was followed by the pastor in an earnest talk along the same line, after which an invitation was given to all to become members of the society, and ten ladies handed in their names. The social closed with a bountiful distribution of refreshments.

Dangerous to Pedestrians.

Last night Officer W. O. Williams found the premises at the corner of Commerce and Main streets, the site of the old Virginia building, in a condition dangerous to pedestrians. The removal of the building has left there a yawning chasm about six or seven feet deep, being the basement of the old structure.

Officer Williams, when passing the corner early in the evening, found this opening entirely unguarded by either lanterns or barricades. He at once set to work gathering barrels and boards, and erected a barricade all along the edge of the walk on both sides of the basement.

Mr. Goode seeks to secure the payment of about $5,000 for his services in securing the sale of the Cedar Grove wet dock property near the navy yard to the government. The government is to pay about $45,000 for the property in question and Mr. Goode claimed a fee from the property owners. One of these demurred at paying the fee, and the matter was brought to its present status. In the petition Mr. Goode alleges that he has worked for several years to bring about the deal.
